The Three Kingdoms (三國) era was a period of turmoil and bloodshed for China, with frequent infighting between warlords plunging China into a perpetual state of chaos. However, the ravages of war bore witness to the emergence of heroes and great leaders aplenty, many of whom have been worshipped for generations ever since, for displaying unwavering loyalty, incredible bravery and tactical ingenuity in defending their land. The tripartite (三分为: 曹魏, 东吴, 蜀汉) struggle for hegemony over ancient China ultimately showcased a keenly contested battle of wits, wills and supreme leadership skills.

Speaker

This workshop approaches the concept of leadership from the valuable insights gained from both the novel, Romance of the Three Kingdoms (三国演义) and the 'Records of the Three Kingdoms' (三国志).

You will have the opportunity to retrospectively pick the brains of the great leaders Cao Cao (曹操), Sun Quan (孙权), Liu Bei (刘备) and Zhuge Liang (诸葛亮), and complete a profiling exercise which will show which of the four leaders' leadership styles you lean towards the most.

What You'll Take Home

Upon completion of seminar, you will be able to:

- Recognize the core leadership styles of the 3K leaders
- Draw parallels between 3K and modern leadership styles
- Gain practicable tips on the strategic application of 3K leadership and management skills in your own organization and daily life
- Realize the importance of succession planning

Outlines

Testimonials

❖ This was one course that I enjoyed thoroughly, for the content, for Anson was very well-versed on this subject and made the course an interesting one relating it very well to the modern day context.

Thank you so much to Anson for introducing this part of Chinese history and pitching it at the right level. I was raving about being a mix of Cao Cao and Zhuge Liang characteristics to my Chinese colleagues. They were certainly very intrigued by all my sharing.
